Please meet Koji the pocket zebracorn, who is yet to grow his horn.

Like his cousin Kirika the pocket unicorn, Koji is special in his own magical way.

With stripes that are yet to fully form, the little zebracorn is a carefree creature off to unleash his curious ways.

I may be small, but my dreams are just as real as yours, he says.

“Don’t write me off just yet. Everyone has his own time to shine.”

Techniques Used

---

Adding chains to a piece that is crocheted in the spiral:

1. This technique is used to add parts that jut out from the original piece. We will use this technique to add Koji's body (extended from his neck).

Important Notes

1. For the tutorial pictures, I am using aran-weight cotton yarn and a 3mm hook, with stripes in a light grey colour and mane/tail in teal green.
2. Remember to match the size of your hook with the weight of your yarn. For me, a 2.5mm hook works best with DK-weight yarn and a 3mm hook, with aran-weight yarn. The size of your zebracorn will vary according to your hook/yarn used.
3. If you're planning to use the traditional black colour for the stripes, you may have to use a white strand of crochet thread to sew on the eyes in order for it to be seen. Or you may reposition the eyes elsewhere (Koji's eyes fall on his brown stripes).

Assembly

1. Pin all the pieces in place to have a general idea of where their positions are and if you are happy with them.

2. Sew snout onto the side of the head (it should point in the opposite direction of the body) approximately from Round 1 at the top. The snout should look like it's pointing a little upwards. At this point, your zebracorn might look a little like a Dodo bird :)
3. Sew on mane at the top of the head – it should be “standing” on its edges. The start of the mane should be positioned at around Round 9 of the snout.
4. Sew on ears. Position them approximately on Round 4 of the head/body. The inner part of the ear should be facing out towards you.
5. Position the tail vertically on the “bum” area of Koji. Sew on tail. Bend the tail slightly to give it a little shape.

6. Sew on legs. Make sure their positions allow your zebracorn to stand upright.
7. Using black crochet thread and a darning needle, sew a horizontal backstitch for the eyelids, about 2 sts long, below Round 8 of the head/body, about one stitch away from the snout.
8. Add on some eyelashes with black sewing thread – make 2 spaced-out vertical stitches along the eyelids.
9. Sew on cheeks below the eyes. Then please say hello to your little zebracorn!
